

SAFETY OF AMERICANS NEAR PARRAL MAY BE IN GRAVE DANGER

PERSISTENT RUMORS THAT MOB
RECKED ITS VENGEANCE
ON FOREIGNERS.

HAS NO WORD FROM PERSHING

Funston Has Heard Nothing From Field Commander in Past
Three Days.

(Associated Press)

Apprehension is felt for the safety of Americans and other foreigners in Parral. There are persistent reports that following the attack on the American cavalry Wednesday, the mob vented its vengeance on American mining property about Parral.

No Further News.

Carranza's ambassador at Washington had no further information of fighting at Parral nor reports of a second clash there. State department dispatches from El Paso referred to a report of a second fight.

Battle Imminent.

A battle between the Carranza and Zapata forces at Cuernavaca, a Zapata fortress, is imminent.

Gen. Funston has received no word from Gen. Pershing in three days and has urged the latter to rush a report on the Parral situation. Pershing's silence is due to his inability to get information rather than to any interruption of communication.

Get "Villa's Drug Store."

What the American troops called "Villa's drug store" was captured after the Guerrero fight. The "drug store" was a pack mule loaded with quinine capsules, antiseptics, bandages and some coffee.

Situation Unchanged.

Lansing pronounced the Mexican situation unchanged in any aspect. Unless official reports to Gen. Funston disclose a more grave situation at Parral, where American troops were fired upon, than is now believed to exist, there is nothing to indicate that any change may be expected in the near future.

Carranza's Suggestion.

It was learned today that Carranza's suggestion that no expeditionary force should exceed 1000 cavalrymen, and not cross a dead line, was contained in diplomatic exchanges which preceded his suggestion that American troops be recalled.

Losses Enormous.

The Alvarado Mining Co. reported its property losses as enormous. Reports from American consuls in the interior of Mexico indicate there is little danger the Parral incident will arouse the resentment of the people.

Funston Gets Note.

Gen. Funston has received a long communication from Washington but has refused to discuss its contents. There is reason to believe his late reports to Washington dealt with the position of Carranza troops in northern Mexico and the failure of them and Carranza authorities to co-operate in the pursuit of Villa.

SEN. BORAH ATTACKED NATIONAL GUARDSMEN

SAID $8,000,000 APPROPRIATED
YEARLY BY GOVERNMENT IS
"SHAMEFULLY WASTED."

(Associated Press)

Washington, Apr. 15.—The senate today adopted Wadsworth's amendment providing that national guardsmen shall take an oath of allegiance to the president as well as to the state. The amendment originated with the guard, according to Wadsworth, who said its chief purpose was to place the guardsmen primarily in the service of the United States and secondarily in the service of the state.

Borah Attacked Guard.

Senator Borah aroused the senate with a charge that $8,000,000 yearly now appropriated by the government for the national guard is "shamefully wasted" and some of it is "embezzled." He said officers of the guard have been utilizing the federal fund for themselves and to the exclusion of enlisted men. Reed and Pomerene defended the guard.

Mrs. Mark Williams of Palmyra will entertain the La-fa-lot Club on Thursday afternoon, April 20.

Dr. E. M. Sheldon of Ashton was in Dixon today.

GERMAN OFFICIALS MAY AVOID BREAK

HAGUE DISPATCH SAYS THEY FEEL PERTURBATION OVER
U. S. ATTITUDE.

SEEM WILLING TO YIELD POINTS

(Associated Press)

Reports of dissatisfaction in the United States over the German note have caused perturbation in the Berlin Foreign office, says a Hague dispatch. The Chancellor is said to have conferred with Gerard and the Austrian Foreign Minister, who is now at Berlin, and to have sent lengthy instructions to Bernstorff. It is further said the German officials now seem willing to strain every nerve to avoid a rupture. The German press continues to publish vicious articles.

Working on Statement

Secretary Lansing continued work today on the statement of the American case which will be forwarded to Berlin.

Shot at Socialist.

Amsterdam says a woman fired two shots at Karl Liebknecht, socialist member of the Reichstag, while he was walking down the street in Berlin. Both shots missed. The woman was arrested.

Sunk By Mine.

British steamer Shenandoah, 3600 tons, has been sunk by a mine. Two of her crew are missing.

American on Ship.

An American, John Harrison of Chicago, was aboard the steamer Margam Abbey, which was sunk without warning April 8, Consul Skinner cabled Harrison, who was steward of the vessel, was rescued.

French Repulsed.

Berlin says French infantry attacks against the German lines at Dead Man's Hill were repulsed with heavy losses.

NEWTON SAYS STORY OF CALL IS UNTRUE

HAS MERELY ACCEPTED INVITA-
TION TO PREACH IN LONDON
DURING JULY.

Rev. Joseph P. Newton, formerly of Dixon, who was reported to have accepted an invitation to accept the pastorate of City Temple Church, London, writes the editor of the Telegraph that the report is incorrect and that while he has accepted an invitation to preach at City Temple Church in London for the month of July, he states, in his characteristic manner: "I have no more idea of going to live in England than I have of flying to the Planet of Mars, which would be much the same thing just now," and he adds his "regards to my dear friends in Dixon, of whom I think so often and always so kindly."

SPECIFICATIONS FOR CLUB HOUSE ARE HERE

PLANS MAY BE SECURED FROM M.
E. RICE—TO RUSH THE BUILDING.

Copies of the plans and specifications for the Dixon Country Club house, which will be erected on the grounds north of the city at once, have been received from the architects and are now in the hands of M. E. Rice at the Nachusa Tavern where contractors may get them. As soon as the contract for the building is awarded work will be rushed, as the building committee wishes to have the structure ready for occupancy by Memorial day.

ATTORNEY MORRISON AFTER STANDARD OIL

DIXON MAN HAS BEEN INVESTIGATING CASE AND SUIT MAY SOON RESULT.

GREGORY WITHHOLDS THE FACTS

Says It Would Be Incompatible With Public Interests to Give Results.

Washington, Apr. 14.—The Department of Justice is planning a new dissolution suit against the Standard Oil it was reported yesterday, and for that reason will not at this time investigate the advance in the price of gasoline.

Attorney General Gregory, responding to Senator Kenyon's resolution calling for the results of the Department of Justice investigation into the working of the Standard Oil dissolution, told the senator that it would be incompatible with public interest to disclose the information at this time.

Think Action is Forecast.

The attorney general's refusal was regarded as forecasting some development in connection with the recent rise in the price of gasoline.

Department officials recently have been in frequent consultation with Charles B. Morrison of Dixon, who took part in prosecuting the dissolution suit against the Standard Oil company and is said to have conducted investigations since the dissolution of the trust on behalf of the department, to determine whether the so-called subsidiaries have violated the antitrust law since the decree was entered.

The department's investigations are said to have disclosed that the so-called Standard Oil companies are not competing, that the stock ownership of the companies has not materially altered since the dissolution decree, and that they are virtually all controlled today by the same group of men who controlled the old Standard Oil company in New Jersey.

Think Decree Defective.

Government officials have regarded the dissolution decree as fundamentally defective in that it permitted the same group of men who controlled the oil trust to control the companies into which it was separated.

Inasmuch as the decree permitted an unchanged ownership, present officials of the department have confined their efforts largely to determining whether any new violations of law were involved by the companies.

Reports that Mr. Morrison has been commissioned by the department to undertake a new investigation of the Standard Oil companies to determine whether the rise in the price of gasoline warranted prosecutions have been persistent for ten days. Department officials refused today to comment on these reports, although it was admitted that Mr. Morrison had been in consultation at the department recently.

The attorney general's office has been investigating the gasoline price increase however largely through the federal trade commission, and has been in frequent consultation with members of the commission.

LITTLE IRENE PETERSON DIED

Daughter of Former Dixon Woman
Died in Batavia April 10.

Irene Marie Peterson, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Peterson of 53 N. Jefferson St., Batavia, Ill., born April 28, 1914, passed away April 10, 1916, at her home of scarlet fever after four days' illness. Funeral services were private and were conducted at the grave in Batavia cemetery by Rev. Thelander of the Batavia Lutheran church. Many beautiful floral offerings were sent by friends. Mrs. Peterson was formerly Miss Inez Snyder of this city and many friends here tender to her and her family their sympathy in their sad hour of trial, which is made additionally heavy by the illness of a little son, Carl Jr., of the same malady.

FIRE FRIDAY P. M.

The fire department was called to the home of B. Hasselson on West Second street Friday afternoon. Children had set an old mattress afire out in the yard. Being close to the barn the wind carried sparks toward the building. The fire was extinguished with a chemical.

COLORED FOLKS HERE MAY BUILD CHURCH

REV. E. H. FLETCHER OF CHICAGO
IS IN DIXON CANVASSING
THE SITUATION.

THINKS POPULATION SUFFICIENT

Rev. E. H. Fletcher of Chicago, a missionary among the colored people of the General Baptist association of Illinois, delivered an able sermon at the home of Aaron Coleman last evening. Mr. Fletcher is taking the religious census of the colored population of the city and the statistics which will result from his survey shall determine the feasibility of some definite religious work in behalf of the colored constituency.

Rev. Fletcher is highly recommended as a successful minister, after having many years of experience in organizing churches and doing missionary work. When he completes the survey he can speak with authority as to whether or not a mission should be started and his words will carry weight with those who are interested in the welfare of the colored race.

There are more colored people residing in the city now than five or ten years ago, and the religious sentiment is strong with them.

Several families are here from the Southern States, where they had their own churches, and since there is no church here they keenly miss the service and long for the time to come when they can have a church home.

This fact has been ascertained, that the colored people of this city will compare favorably with the people of their race in any northern city, and they should be encouraged in their desire to do more aggressive christian work.

Mr. Coleman announces that Rev. Fletcher will preach at 3 and 7:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon at the city hall. All interested are cordially invited to attend.

"PREPAREDNESS" WAS THEME OF BANQUET

NAVY LEAGUE HAD ENTHUSIAS-
TIC MEETING AT NACHUSA
TAVERN FRIDAY.

LEWIS UNABLE TO BE HERE

Attorney Diver of Waukegan Gave Excellent Address—Others
Had Fine Toasts.

William Mather Lewis, who was to address a meeting of the Navy League at the Nachusa Tavern last evening, was unable to be present and his telegram of regret was read to the meeting, but he was very ably represented by Attorney Clarence W. Diver of Waukegan, Ill., a state committeeman of the Navy League, whose address was a source of great enjoyment and valuable information to the audience of nearly sixty men and women. A splendid banquet was served and music was enjoyed during the serving of the meal. L. W. Mitchell of this city presided as Toastmaster in his graceful and entertaining manner.

Beside the address of Atty. Diver, which dealt with "The Navy League," Albert R. Brunner of Chicago, who accompanied Mr. Diver, addressed the assemblage. Geo. H. Lamberton of Chicago also accompanied Mr. Diver to Dixon. The balance of the program was carried out as formerly planned, and follows:

Preparedness from a Manufacturer's Viewpoint W. B. Brinton

A Few Words Father Michael Foley

Ports, Ports and Pork

Prof. H. P. Hibbush

Preparedness by a Member of the Cloth Rev. Ernest Lumsden

Personal Experiences in the U. S. Navy L. C. Street

Elected Officers.

An election of officers in the local branch of the Navy League resulted in the following selections:

President—Lester Street, Dixon.

Vice President—S. L. Shaw, Lee Center.

Secretary—J. B. Lennon, Dixon.

Treasurer—Wm. Frye, Dixon.

Toasts All Good.

The talks of the different speakers on the program were splendid. "Preparedness" was the slogan of the evening and all seemed to be in accord with that sentiment. Various methods and suggestions were offered. The meeting was one of great value to the participants and was the format organization of a body that will doubtless grow to have considerable influence in this community. To L. C. Street belongs the credit for the organization of this patriotic society for it was by his untiring efforts that the members were secured in Dixon.

The dining hall of the Nachusa Tavern, where the banquet and meeting was held, was very beautifully decorated with American flags and red carnations. A large number of big flags were draped around the room and on the chandeliers.

Among the guests at the banquet from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. T. Shaw, Prof. and Mrs. Hibbush, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Aschenbrenner and daughter, Miss Della, and Mr. and Mrs. William Frost Jr., all of Lee Center.

N.D.H.S. SENIORS IN ANNUAL CLASS PLAY

LARGE AUDIENCE THOROUGHLY ENJOYED PERFORMANCE ON FRIDAY EVENING.

STUDENTS DISPLAYED TALENT

The seniors of the North Dixon high school acquired additional honors on Friday evening when an audience which filled the opera house witnessed their excellent production of "At the End of the Rainbow."

Each member of the cast deserved praise, for the production was a difficult one.

Misses Ruth Remington, Margaret Kling, Eunice Laing, Eleanor Coppins, Ruth Leake, Marjory Cushing, Maybelle Smith, Dora Smith, Gertrude Rogers and Elizabeth Raymond, the last named a maid with a taste for literature, performed their parts with equal talent and grace, and Philip Raymond, Dwight Chapman and Clyde Lenox had difficult parts but carried them through with honors.

The North Dixon high school orchestra played several selections before the raising of the curtain and between the acts with Mrs. Muriel Phelps, the instructor, as leader. The orchestra received much merited applause.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES IN STRIFE OVER OFFICER

SOUTH SIDE OFFICIALS WERE UN-ABLE TO AGREE ON A TREASURER.

The trustees of the north and south side school districts met Friday for organization. John E. Moyer and E. B. Raymond were chosen chairman and treasurer respectively on the north side, but the south side trustees were unable to agree on a treasurer and adjourned until Tuesday, when an effort will be made to elect that official. Dissension developed when Clifford Gray, the new trustee, nominated F. D. Palmer for the treasurer. Chas. I. Will voted with Mr. Gray, whereupon W. F. Preston, the third trustee, immediately offered his resignation. Mr. Will then withdrew his vote and Mr. Preston withdrew his resignation.

X-RAY APPARATUS FOR DENTAL OFFICE

NEW MODERN MACHINE INSTALL-
ED IN DR. Z. W. MOSS'
DENTAL PARLORS.

Dr. Moss has recently added to his dental equipment a modern X-ray machine, which is manufactured by H. G. Fisher & Co. of Chicago.

He is fortunate in having a dark room, with all conveniences for developing plates to enable him to take and complete X-ray pictures in ten minutes. Thursday his office was given up to demonstrations conducted by C. C. Remington, a representative of the Fisher company, and many successful and interesting pictures were taken. The machine is especially equipped for dental work but is fully as capable of doing all kinds of X-ray work coming within the scope of a physician's general practice.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

Every member of the Republican county central committee is asked to attend the meeting of the body which will be held in the supervisors' room at the court house Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of organization.

Andrew Aschenbrenner and wife of Bradford township were here last evening.

FILED CONTEST ON RESULT OF TOWN ELECTION

VICTORY OF "DIYS" ATTACKED IN PETITION FILED IN THE COUNTY COURT.

PENDING SUPREME COURT ACTION

Constitutionality of Women's Suffrage Act to Be Decided Soon.

A petition was filed in the county court of Lee county this afternoon to contest the result of the recent option election held in the Town of Dixon on Tuesday, April 4. The parties filing the petition and plaintiffs in the case are John H. Loftus, George Schorr, Leonard Whipple, Max Lett and John W. Joyce, and a summons was issued in the case, returnable April 25th, against Paul A. Lennon, Town Clerk of the Town of Dixon, who is made the defendant, he being the custodian of the ballots and other election and Town records.

The only question raised by the petition filed today is the constitutionality of the so called Women's Suffrage law. While it is true that the supreme court of Illinois in June, 1914, in the case of Scowen against Czarnicki, upheld the law by a 4 to 3 vote of the court, there is now pending in the supreme court another case involving the validity of that law. The first case testing the law was decided by a majority of but one vote and one of the majority of the members of the court has since died, so there has been a change in the personnel of the court since the election of his successor.

Case In Court.

The case now pending in the supreme court is the contested case of Franklin against Westfall, appealed from the circuit court of McDonough county. The case is a contest over the office of Judge of the city court at Macomb, the result of the election of a Judge having been changed by the women's votes. This case has been pending in the supreme court since last fall and a decision was expected at the February term, but was not handed down and the April term of court is now in session and the court is expected to finish its work for the term about next Thursday when an opinion in the case from Macomb is expected to be filed.

Precautionary Move.

The local option law provides that a contest must be filed within ten days after the canvass or the returns and today being the tenth day it was necessary to file the petition to contest the election in order to save the question in the possible event of an opinion being filed by the supreme court in the case now pending in that court holding the suffrage law unconstitutional, in which event, with this contest pending, the women's ballots cast on April 4 on the question of abolishing the saloons would not be counted.

Suits of this same nature have been commenced in numerous other localities in the state where the anti-saloon forces won by the votes of the women only at last week's election. The only object in filing the suit to contest the election in Dixon is to take precaution necessary to protect the legal rights of those interested in the event that the suffrage law should be held unconstitutional.

Male Vote Was "Wet."

The petition alleges that of the legal male voters at the election 941 voted "Yes" and 1355 voted "No" and that the majority of the legal votes cast upon the proposition were against the Town of Dixon becoming anti-saloon territory, but that the canvass of the vote as it has been conducted has changed the result because of counting the 2161 votes cast by women on the proposition, of whom 1418 voted "Yes" and 743 voted "No," and the petition further alleges that the election was not legally called because F. D. Palmer, who was then Town Clerk, had not filed in his office a valid and legal petition upon which to base a call for such an election on the proposition as the petition filed contained 570 signatures of whom but 154 were those of legal male voters and 416 were the signatures of women whom it is contended were not legal voters of the Town of Dixon and had no

Author of "At Good Old Swash"
THOMAS JEFFERSON.

Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States, and the most famous red-haired man since Julius Caesar's time, was born on April 13, 1743, in a state of affluence, and also in Virginia, both of which states were regarded at that time by future presidents as the most favorable in which to be born. Jefferson's father was a planter, a lawyer, and a young Thomas grew up with all the luxuries of the time, including books, college education and white satin pants. He was a talented writer and had he lived today would have successfully concealed himself from posterity by publishing valuable articles in the high-brow magazines.

As it was, however, he was compelled to go into the law. When the colonies met in convention at Philadelphia in 1776, Jefferson, then a young man, wrote the Declaration of Independence, which speedily became a best seller and has promoted the sale of gunpowder on the Fourth of July ever since. Some people assert that this act was fatal to Jefferson because the declaration was signed on the Fourth of July, and its author expired on the same date. However, there was a margin of fifty years between cause and effect and Jefferson's sad fate at the age of 83 should not deter young patriots with declarations to write.

After the colonies revolted, Jefferson began holding office and continued to do so with great tenacity and name.

continuity, finally becoming vice president in John Adams' administration. Jefferson was deeply opposed to Adams and Massachusetts and ostentation and other things and became an insurgent on 1675 counts. He defeated Adams in 1800 and became president, ruling the country with great firmness and diplomacy for eight years. On his inauguration day he rode his horse into Washington, tied him to a post and took the oath of office without frills or fuss. This was hailed as a magnificent example of simplicity, but in reality it was a magnificent example of prudence. Washington had just been laid out and was guileless of sidewalks or pavements. The spring had set in and if Jefferson had tried to reach the capitol in a coach he would have been inaugurated about 1811.

Jefferson interpreted the Constitution with great strictness except when it became necessary to substitute common sense, when he substituted latter with great success, annexing Louisiana in a manner that deeply shocked the conservatives of his time. He introduced rotation in office with such energy that hundreds of members of the opposing party became dizzy and retired to private life and he continued to be a firm friend of people throughout his administration. In 1802 he introduced the custom of bequeathing the presidency to a personal friend and elected James Madison. He then retired to his home at Monticello and spent his latter years founding the University of Virginia and entertaining visitors, which he did so lavishly and persistently that he died a ruined man in everything but fame and honor and affection. He was the only president who did not belong to a church, but conducted a guerrilla warfare for his greatness with great success and left an untarnished name.

Sudan Grass Seed

Sudan Grass Has No Knockers—Everyone Who Has Tried It Sings Its Praise.

Nothing within the memory of living man has created such a stir among agriculturists all over the American continent as Sudan Grass.

It seems to overshadow even Alfalfa. The remarkable thing about all this publicity is that every one is singing the song of praise.

Sudan Grass has no knockers. Here is a crop that has put many a farmer on his legs. Discouragement has been turned into encouragement, delight and immense profit.

The possibilities for Sudan Grass are unlimited. It absolutely refuses not to grow. It produces more and better hay than any other forage crop. Under ordinary conditions yields 600 to 1,200 lbs. of seed and from 3 to 6 tons of choice hay to the acre the same year. Some farmers are making from $40.00 to $100.00 an acre from the hay and from $200.00 to $700.00 an acre from seed. IT IS AN ANNUAL. Harvest it from two to four times a season. It does out like oats or any other grain crop. Live stock prefer it to other grass. SUDAN GRASS IS THE MOST ACCOMMODATING GRASS EVER INTRODUCED INTO THIS COUNTRY. It will thrive under conditions of drought or excessive moisture; it is excellent either for high, exposed positions or for bottom land. All conditions of soil seem alike to it. Can be successfully raised in any state in the Union.

SUDAN—ITS HISTORY.

As the name implies, comes from Sudan of Africa, and was first introduced in the United States in 1909 by the Department of Agriculture. Since that time it has been experimented with and tested in all sections of the United States. The Government, in fact, estimates that its feeding value is only 3% less of the other common hays, while stock eat it in preference to even Alfalfa. In brief, Sudan solves the hay and pasture problem for a very large section of the United States.

In planting Sudan Grass be sure you get Northern Grown Seed. Prices delivered to your station, with planting instructions, using five lbs. per acre.

SAYS ACID STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION

Excess of hydrochloric acid soured the food and forms gases.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyper-acidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten soured in the stomach much like garbage soured in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescent and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

PRaise EICHENBERG FOR HIS FINE WORK

MANNER IN WHICH HE CARES FOR COURT HOUSE IS COMMENDED.

The excellent condition in which the court house and grounds are kept speaks well of the manner in which the caretaker, George Eichenberg, performs his duty. As an appreciation of the good work the grand jury, before adjourning Wednesday, passed the following resolution:

We, the undersigned grand jurors of the April term of Lee county circuit court, wish to add our commendation to those of many previous grand juries for the excellent work of Caretaker George Eichenberg of the court house. This county building is in excellent condition and we would challenge any other county in the state to show a better kept county building. The entire credit goes to the excellent supervision of Mr. Eichenberg.

CLIFTON M'BRIDE, Foreman.
FRED C. GROSS, Clerk.

FINED $3 AND COSTS.

While on his way back to Sterling on the last interurban car Wednesday night Joseph Tahan started a rough house and two windows of the car were broken. He was arraigned before Magistrate Kent yesterday afternoon to answer to the charge of disorderly conduct and was assessed a fine of $3 and costs.

Dr. Pankhurst was here Thursday from Grand Detour.

Wash and scrub yourself to beat the band, but don't forget your stomach, bowels and insides—Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will clean them, quick and slick. Try it this Spring. 35c. Tea or tablets.—Rowland Bros.

Look and Feel
Clean, Sweet and
Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Polts who are accustomed to feel all and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, musty breath, acid stomach, an, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Community Club Dance.

An enjoyable event Thursday evening was the Community Club dance at the Gap Grove hall. Those in Dixon receiving invitations feel fortunate at the short spin on good roads to the hall adds zest to the pleasant evening which invariably follows. The music is always good, the Marquette orchestra playing Thursday evening, and with good company, good music and a good floor, who couldn't have a good time? Every now and then the club presents a new feature. The next is to be a May party to be given May 4th, and doesn't that hint of a charming time in a blossom-decorated hall, with May poles, and what not?

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Karen
 Danced With
 Her Red Shoes.

"You shall dance from door to door."

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen]
 "T'S late. Let's start the bedtime story, daddy," said Jack.
 "When a little girl who lived with an old lady got an invitation to go to a nice ball, where she could wear her new red shoes, she forgot all else," daddy told Jack and Evelyn. "She just ran to the ball and began to dance. But the red shoes would not let her do what she liked. When she wanted to go to the right the red shoes danced left. When she wanted to dance left the shoes went right and down the room when she wanted to go up the stairs, through the street and right out the town gate. Away the red shoes danced with the little girl in them, right away into a dark forest. Far away up above the trees shone something which she thought was the moon, for it was a face. But when she looked twice she saw it was an old soldier with a red beard, who nodded and said, 'See what pretty dancing shoes!'"
 "This frightened the little girl, whose name was Karen, and she wanted to throw her shoes away, but when she tried to pull them off they stuck fast to her feet. She tore off her stockings, but the shoes had grown to be a part of her. So off she had to dance over fields and meadows, in rain, in sunshine, by night and by day. But nights it was fearful."
 "Did she ever meet any giants?" asked Evelyn.
 "No. But she danced right through a graveyard into the open door of a church. Here stood an angel in long white robes and wings that reached from his shoulders to his feet. His face was very stern, and he said to Karen: 'You shall dance in your red shoes till you are pale and cold. You shall dance from door to door, and whenever you meet proud, vain children you must knock at their door so that they may see how vain you are.'"
 "Mercy!" shrieked Karen, but she had no time to say more, for the red shoes bore her out of the gate, into the fields, over roadways and paths, on and on. One morning she danced past a door that she knew well. She heard the sound of a hymn and went inside the church to find the old lady she used to live with lying with flowers all about her. Then she knew that the old lady was dead and that she was alone in the world with her dancing red shoes. She wanted to stay a minute by her friend, but on and on the shoes carried her through the nights. Sometimes they took her over briars, so that she stumbled and her feet bled. But on she danced till she came to a lonely little house in a meadow," daddy ended.
 So Jack and Evelyn understood and ran off to bed like good children.

BASE BALL BOOSTER BAZAR EASTER WEEK

LOCAL PROMOTERS WILL GIVE PUBLIC CHANCE TO HELP FINANCE TEAM.

GAMES FUTURE IS DEPENDENT

With the opening of the major league baseball season this week the interest of Dixon fans in the great game is increasing and speculation on prospects for a team for this city is rife. Joe Killian of Sterling recently informed Dixon promoters of the game that a strong team is to be organized there and similar reports come from Rochelle, DeKalb, LaSalle, Freeport and other nearby cities.

The holders of Lincoln park announce that with proper encouragement they will back a strong team here, and the people of this city will be given an opportunity to show whether they want baseball by the manner in which they patronize a big booster bazar which has been arranged for the week of April 24-29.

The bazar will start with a big ball on Easter Monday evening and will continue all week with special features each evening of the week. Booster tickets good for the entire week are now on sale to arouse public interest in the affair, for which a campaign will be started next week.

THE HUM OF THE HUMBUGS

Catalogue House System Offspring of Humbuggery.

CHEAP AND FLIMSY SECONDS

It is supposed that Satan was the Original Humbug—The Retail Catalogue House People Have Developed the Art Until It Has Become a Disease With Them.

[Copyrighted, 1911, by Thomas J. Sullivan.]
On a certain occasion some boys thought they would play a trick on the great naturalist, Darwin.

They caught a beetle, glued various parts of other insects upon its head and body, placed it in a little box and humbly knocked at Darwin's door, seeking to know what the great scientist would call this wonderful bug they had assembled.

Mr. Darwin looked it over very critically and asked the boys very seriously, "Did this bug hum when you caught it?" "Yes, sir," it hummed a great deal," replied the boys, with sly winks at each other.

"Then this must be a humbug," said Darwin.
It is supposed that Satan was the original humbug, but since the mail-order houses have been established he has had to take a back seat, and among so many modern improvements he must feel dreadfully useless and antiquated.

Love to Be Humbugged.

That the American people love to be humbugged long since has passed into a proverb. Trickery may be called our national vice, our besetting sin. Like liberty, it appears to be in the very air we breathe. We take to it as naturally as we do to politics. Our entire social system has become saturated with it. Even at times it masquerades under the mantle of charity, which, like a well filled purse, covers a multitude of sins.

There are various kinds and classes of fakers and tricksters, but the princes of them all, the incarnations of fraud, are the advertising humbugs, who, when stripped of the sugar coating by which they impose upon the public, are simply professors of falsehood.

Would Strike Liars Dead.

The ancient scribes tell us that the Lord once attempted to check the humbug habit by striking the liars dead, but when he looked into the future and saw the huge catalogue houses looming in the distance he reluctantly relinquished the idea, as he saw that such a plan in the congested centers would prove more fatal than a second flood.

The mail order houses word their advertising so as to appeal to the credulity and weakness of human nature, as it is generally known that every son of Adam and daughter of Eve possesses a disposition to resort to games of chance, an inclination to get something for nothing.

Possess the Gambling Instinct.

A noted gambler once said: "Life consists in taking chances. Providence has instilled into the brains and hearts of men the betting instinct." So when the mail order houses came into existence they at once opened up an avenue for the development of humanity's well known weakness—a desire for gambling.

GERMAN HEAVY GUNS PREPARE NEW DRIVE

Surprise Attack Is Driven Back by French.

Paris, April 15.—A small surprise attack was made by the Germans early in the night against the French lines to the south of Douaumont. The attack was completely repulsed.

For a night and day the Germans took up and maintained at intervals a heavy bombardment of the French positions at Le Mort Homme and Hill 304 to the west of the Meuse and the whole French front on the eastern bank of the river. Particular attention was given by the German gunners to the French second lines on the eastern part of the river with now and then an especially violent burst of fire on the first lines. No infantry action has yet followed these preparations which are supposed to preface a resumption of attacks at these points.

German troop movements toward the front are increasingly evident in the Argonne region, presumably intended for attacks on Le Mort Homme and Hill 304. These troop movements drew a heavy fire from the French artillery in the region of Mont Faucon and Malancourt, and the roads in these regions were kept under bombardment.

DIXON COLLECTION IS LARGEST IN HISTORY

TAX COLLECTOR TURNED OVER $104,000 TO COUNTY TREASURER TODAY.

TO SETTLE WITH STATE MONDAY

The delinquent tax book of Dixon township was balanced today and turned over by Deputy Collector Eastman to County Treasurer John E. Moyer. The collection this year is larger than in years in the history of the county, being over $104,000. For several years it has run from $80,000 to $95,000. The levy this year was large, being $158,845.14. It is no small task to make the collections in the township, as on the personal books alone there are about 400 names. The collector is held responsible for the collection of the personal tax, which means much work to round up all these people.

Settles With State.
County Treasurer John E. Moyer goes to Springfield Monday to settle with the state treasurer for state funds so far collected. The state levy this year was $106,500, being larger than a year ago. Of the state fund the township collectors had received $66,638.74, which will be paid to the state treasurer by Mr. Moyer together with $2,248.35 registered bonds on the Maple Grove drainage district which are on file in the office of the state treasurer. The final settlement is made on July 1, following the close of the tax books.

Dramatic Notes

A TRIP AROUND THE WORLD IN 90 MINUTES.

50,000 Miles Behind a Moving Picture Camera.

Will be shown at the Dixon opera house tonight and tomorrow night.

Did it ever occur to you that if you were rich you would like to take in the wonders of the world, visit the strange places on earth and see for yourself the many sided existence of many nations?

Such an opportunity is placed within the power of every person in the moving picture films, "Around the World in 90 Minutes," considered one of the greatest productions ever attempted by means of motion photography.

They are presented by that intrepid traveler and explorer, Luman C. Mann who lectures on the various countries visited and points out the interesting features as they occur upon the screen, making it a personally conducted tour around the world.

He delves into the nooks and corners of the earth's surface as well as the civilized centers, taking you from the highest form of civilization to the aboriginal and cannibal tribes of the islands of Polynesia and Africa.

One sees the Eskimos in the Arctic and the mat makers of the jungles, the tea houses of Japan and the bull fights of old Mexico. You take a ride along the great wall of China and visit the whirling dervishes of Arabia and leave the palaces of Europe for the dense tropics of the Equator. It is a rapid fire exhibit of all that is contained on the surface of this restless world of ours.

As an educational feature it is second to none. It contains more solid information, geographically given than the greatest geographers can picture with their pens and photographs irradicably upon the memory events that can never be effaced by time.

Mr. Mann is well known himself in all the larger centers as a man who has devoted his life to travel and lectures upon subjects that deal with the great outdoors; he is the Jack London of the movie industry and is thoroughly familiar with the subjects he presents. He will take you among the temples of India with as much ease as escorting you down State street, Chicago and will enlighten you more during the 90 minutes he acts as your guide through this tour than three years of study from books made possible.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

A STORY OF MOUNTAIN RAILROAD LIFE
By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

AUTHOR OF "WHISPERING SMITH," "THE MOUNTAIN DIVIDE," "STRATEGY OF GREAT RAILROADS," ETC.

NOVELIZED FROM THE MOVING PICTURE PLAY OF THE SAME NAME. PRODUCED BY THE SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad, by George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood Helen makes a spectacular double rescue of Storm, now a freight fireman, and of her father and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight. Safebreakers employed by Seagrue, and Capelle, his lawyer, interrupted by Helen while stealing General Holmes' survey plans of the cut-off line for the Tidewater, fatally wound General Holmes and escape. Storm and Helen chase the murderers on a light engine and capture them. Spike has hidden the plans and manages to inform Seagrue where they are cached.

THIRD INSTALLMENT

CHAPTER III.

The death of Helen's father disclosed at once the serious weakness of his monetary affairs. He had developed his valuable railroad properties without capital of his own adequate to finance them. He was the nominal head of great transportation projects; he had been, in truth, the brain and energy of these, but the actual control belonged to eastern bankers who had supplied the funds to put them through. And with General Holmes' death his daughter was brought face to face with this fact.

In the library of her home the attorneys for the estate were already gathered to discuss its affairs. Amos Rhinelander, her father's faithful friend—indeed, the sole friend among the general's many associates that now manifested the slightest interest in the fate of his unfortunate daughter—was present that morning. With him, however, as if to offset the benefit of his presence, was his already criminally compromised nephew, Seagrue.

Helen, who had been summoned to the library, walked down from her room to join the little company.

Gave Helen the Message She Asked For.

To Seagrue, who, in apprehension, had absented himself since the night of the tragedy, she never had looked so pleasing as she now did.

Much was in Seagrue's mind and something of it all reflected itself in his face. A score of times his unprincipled recklessness had led him close to criminal lengths; now, it had carried him from a simple suggestion of theft, unscrupulously assented to, to robbery and to murder—the murder of General Holmes himself by Capelle's hired tools. He was as yet too new in his path of crime to feel indifferent to the fearful consequences.

Where he stood, unobserved by the others, he took out of a wallet drawn from his pocket a cuff cut from a shirt and reread a scrawl written on it by Spike, his convict accomplice, advising him that the stolen survey was hidden under the south end of Little San Pablo bridge.

With some trivial excuse for absenting himself, Seagrue left the house, got in his runabout car and started for the San Pablo bridge. He found the document where Spike had hidden it.

Helen, in the interval, conferring with her attorneys, and with Amos Rhinelander at hand to soften the blow as best he could, was learning bit by bit the completeness of her father's financial ruin through his sudden death. In matter of fact, all that remained of his free assets was the recently allotted block of stock—now an item of merely nominal value—in the new cut-off line. Long after the attorney had gone, Rhinelander remained.

"It's not that the stock is worthless, Helen," he said—they were again together in the library. "If the new line is ever what your father hoped it would be, the investment may yet prove of the greatest value."

Seagrue, during the little talk, had returned and sat examining reports at the other end of the library. He could overhear Rhinelander's reassuring words to Helen. "The Copper Range and Tidewater will continue operations just as fast as money can be raised," his uncle was saying. "We can begin the work of building the cut-off where it leaves the main line. Meantime, we will send out new surveying parties on reconnaissance to try to relocate the pass through the Superstition range. All may come well yet, little girl."

He patted her hand, rose and left her. Seagrue at a distance studied the outline of the slender figure and the striking silhouette of Helen's head and neck as she stood looking out on the rain-beaten landscape. He walked over to where she remained oblivious to his presence and ventured a few carefully chosen words of sympathy. Nothing so despicable, so pusillanimous as this had ever marked his career, but he had groomed himself for anything.

"I am in a position, Helen," he went on, "perhaps a better position than any among your father's friends, to take up his work where he left it off. His murderers are in jail—I will undertake to see to their punishment. His new line can be made a valuable property. I am willing and able to provide the means to put it through. But I am alone, as you know. I care for no one other than you—I've told you that. Let me take your troubles. Be my wife."

"I have told you," she said, looking down but speaking quick and firmly, "that I can't listen to you on that subject. Could you possibly expect me to do so at a moment like this—my father—her voice faltered—"scarcely buried!"

She put her handkerchief to her face and walked away. Swallowing his humiliation with a resolve to conquer her obstinacy yet, he followed her with his gaze up the stairs. Then he sauntered over to the table at which she had been conferring with his uncle. There lay the bundle of stock certificates. He felt so completely master of the situation that he involuntarily made a gesture as if to tear the batch in two.

Rhinelander, coming into the library at that moment from his room, saw the movement. He took the securities impatiently from Seagrue's hand. "You treat these as if they were waste paper. They are not. On the contrary, if I have my way that cut-off is going to be built," he declared emphatically. Leaving him, Rhinelander went up stairs to find Helen. "Put these certificates away, my dear," he said with seriousness. "Although they don't stand for much now—" he paused—"some day I may call on you for them."

Seagrue, laughing a little to himself had turned, when his uncle walked away, to light a cigarette. As he did this a servant approached him bearing a shabby-looking, finger-marked note. It bore no address.

Seagrue opened the envelope and read:

"Somebody will have to help me out of here or I'll squeal. No more at present from SPIKE."

It was a blunt shock. But Seagrue knew from what Capelle, his lawyer, had told him, that this man meant always what he said. He pondered his dilemma for a time, decided what must be done, asked a servant for his hat and coat and hastening out headed his car for Cedar Grove, where Spike and Hyde lay incarcerated. Arranging by telephone as soon as he reached the little town for a meeting with Capelle, Seagrue inquired his way to the prison.

The jailer had brought Spike his noonday meal—a dish of stew, a loaf of soggy bread and a tin of coffee—and Spike was settling himself on his iron cot when Seagrue, with the jailer, entered his cell.

Greetings passed between Seagrue and Spike as they met and the two exchanged a few bluffing remarks, calculated to mislead the listening official. But Spike's roving eyes riveted themselves gradually on the bunch of jangling keys carried by the jailer in his hand. When the jailer looked his way, the bullet head of Spike was down and his eyes were fixed on the loaf of heavy bread from which he was tearing great chunks to eat. A thought had come into his head and if it could be successfully acted on, it offered a faint hope of escape. Watching his opportunity, he managed after some effort to make Seagrue understand what he wanted, i. e., that he should occupy for a while the jailer's attention.

In the meantime, while Spike's iron jaw was grinding at a chunk of the crust, he was tearing out the center of the loaf of bread with his hand and kneading the dough thus flched within his palm. Seagrue made a good confederate, and without much trouble engaged the jailer's interest. It was then that Spike, leaning back, managed, undetected, to pass the dough around the key that opened the lock of his own cell; in an instant he had the coveted impression.

A bell warned the jailer that the visitor's time was up. In parting, the confederates shook hands. As they did so, Spike slipped the dough, unobserved, into Seagrue's palm and succeeded in conveying to him by signs an intimation of what he had given him.

Capelle, who had arrived on Seagrue's peremptory summons, at the appointed place, some distance from the jail, awaited Seagrue there with a grin: "Some expedition you've embarked on!"

Seagrue was in no mood for joking. "One you shoved me into," he retorted surlily. He curtly told his confederate what had occurred. Then he drew from his overcoat pocket Spike's handful of dough, showed it to Capelle and explained what it was. "Have a key made tonight from this impression; meet me here tomorrow with it."

The following afternoon Seagrue was again at the jail—this time, ostensibly, to visit Hyde. Passing Spike's cell, a dust coat hanging somewhat ostentatiously from his arm, Seagrue paused to greet him. In doing this to took occasion to lay his fingers on one of the bars of the cell door; as he said good morning the new key dropped from his hand inside the barred door. Spike's foot at once covered it. Moving on, Seagrue let fall from his arm one of the two dust coats which he was in reality carrying. Spike, dropping like a cat on his knee, whipped the fallen garment swiftly in between the bars, and while Seagrue and the jailer remained with Hyde, Spike made a rapid change of clothing.

Slipping into the dust coat he found in one of the pockets a cap and a pair of goggles thoughtfully stowed. And watching his chance for the corridor to be empty, he cautiously unlocked his cell door, peered out and swung the door noiselessly open. Hardly a moment after the jailer and Seagrue had left Hyde's cell, Spike walked boldly up the corridor—his avenue of escape was open.

In Helen's home two days practically completed the rapid tragedy of her changed circumstances. Her maid, whom she told she could no longer keep, had gone in tears—and the country seat as well as the town house had been given over with furnishings to creditors. Vans stood backed up in the front driveways and the library itself, scene of her cruellest misfortunes, was being dismantled by moving men on the morning that Rhinelander met her there for the last time to discuss her future.

"You are stubborn," he insisted, taking her tenderly. "I like independence—anybody does. It is gritty; it is American and it's all right in its place. But under such circumstances as these you should come with me, as I want you to, to my home. You will be a welcome daughter to my wife and to me. You know we are unhappily childless. Your father would have wished this; my wife has asked it of you as I do now. Why persist in refusing us?"

Helen did not answer at once, though her gratefulness shone from her eyes. "I'm not merely obstinate, Uncle Amos," she responded at length—"nor ungrateful. I have thought everything over, or, so long and carefully. But I can't help feeling that I must, for a while, anyway, remain independent. I intend to earn my own living."

Rhinelander felt he could say no more. They discussed other things for a time and she then confided to him her plans for making a start. Nothing in all the rapid events of the fortnight had seemed to him more tragical than this resolve that his old friend's daughter had so resolutely taken. He looked almost weary and troubled as he took from his pocket-book a card and on it wrote the message Helen had asked him to write:

"Arthur Gaylord, Superintendent C. R. & T. R. R.:

"Dear Gay: The bearer, Miss Helen Holmes, wants work. Anything you can do will be appreciated. R."

Though her resolution had been taken, it seemed to require all of Helen's courage to make the actual start on the path she had chosen. She reached the superintendent's office at Beaman next day, after wandering all over the yards to find it, almost frightened out of her undertaking.

Gaylord, the superintendent, met her with a consideration that dispelled her fears. In a few words he spoke feelingly of her father, and after asking what she would like to try, gave her a note to the agent at Signal station, assigning her for clerical work due to the cut-off construction, already under way there.

George Storm, the freight engineer, had not seen Helen since the funeral of her father—which he had lain off to attend—nor had he heard of her. He was east-bound at Beaman one morning, comparing orders with his conductor, when he saw Helen in her severely plain black about to board the local passenger train which was to take her to Signal to begin work.

The engineer hastened to her. She met his utter astonishment—when she had told him what she was doing and why—without embarrassment or confusion, only laughing a little at his concern.

But when, questioning her further, Storm learned of the cut-off operations, now begun—not alone by the Tidewater people, but as well by their rivals—the Colorado & Coast line—his suspicions were aroused and he disclosed them to Helen without reserve. "That Colorado & Coast crowd are running our people a hot race on the cut-off construction. They know something about that original survey—they must—or they would never start in so far."

Helen smiled incredulously. "I think that could hardly be, Mr. Storm. You know the men building now against our line were then father's own associates, and my friends."

Storm was stubborn in his attitude. "They are supposed to be your friends," he said skeptically.

HARMON.

Harmon, Apr. 13—The vote at the primaries on last Tuesday was extremely small.

There are very few farmers in town this week as most of them are planting oats.

Jacob Rhodenbaugh had his hand badly injured a few days ago when a horse he was leading pulled away and the flesh on the fingers was badly lacerated.

George E. Ross has rented his farm to Joseph Smallwood and he will run it this year.

Frank Hettinger is having quite a little building done on his farm this spring. Jacob Rhodenbaugh is in charge of the work.

Frank Hettinger has just returned from Piatt county where he was called recently to see his mother, who is quite ill.

Mrs. Wm. Camery went to Evans-ton to see Miss Camery, who is there taking treatment.

Mrs. Wm. Smith is visiting at Flagg Station with her sister, Mrs. Titus.

D. D. Considine and wife were in Dixon Tuesday.

B. F. Swab was in Sterling and Dixon on Wednesday.

There will be two elections this spring in Harmon, the village and the school elections.

It is quite dull with the elevators, as there is no grain coming in, the farmers being busy in the fields.

Mrs. John Hutton was in Sterling Wednesday.

Glen Hopkins and M. W. Watson of East Grove were in Harmon on Monday.

Much tiling is being done in this section this spring.

According to the last school report, during the month of March there were enrolled 13 boys and 11 girls in the high school; in the intermediate room there were 11 boys and 9 girls, and in the primary room, 13 boys and 10 girls.

The prospects are for a large crop of strawberries, raspberries and black berries in this locality this fall, unless there is a late frost to kill the berries.

WEST BROOKLYN

The big total of 35 votes was cast at the presidential primary election in this precinct on Tuesday. Many of the voters did not even know there was an election.

George Schuckel of South Brooklyn was here Tuesday.

B. J. Long was in Chicago Tuesday buying the material for the front of his new restaurant building.

Joseph Graf of Viola township was a visitor in West Brooklyn on last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Amel Henry were morning passengers for Aurora on Monday to visit with friends for the day.

Eugene P. Henry of Viola was in West Brooklyn Monday forenoon on business.

N. J. Bieschke carried the mail on route 2 Tuesday on account of the regular carrier being a member of the election board for that day.

Robert Dingler of LaSalle motored to West Brooklyn on Tuesday in his new Scripts-Booth auto.

On Monday, April 10th, 1916, the News reached its 23rd birthday anniversary. How time flies, as many of our original subscribers are willing to testify. There are a dozen or two of them who began taking the paper with its very first issue and have never missed a copy since.

John Shager and Adam and Levi Mehlbrech motored to Dixon on Tuesday where the former secured his second papers for naturalization.

Edward Henry sold a Ford runabout to George F. Bauer of Compton Saturday.

Henry L. Gehant delivered the new 1916 Studebaker touring car which he recently sold to Frank Halbmaier, on Saturday.

West Brooklyn is to have movies again this summer. This time a firm from Sterling and Rock Falls are attempting the venture. If successful the pictures will be continued during the summer, and if not they will be discontinued soon. The men have been in the picture business for five years and will spend all day Saturday in town every week to prepare their show for night. By this method they should put on a good show, as they have one of the best machines for pictures manufactured. We understand the opening show will be given this Saturday night.

The vote in detail as to party affiliation in West Brooklyn on Tuesday was as follows: Democratic 25, Republican 10, Progressive 5, Socialist 0. Needless to say that if West Brooklyn elected the president the Hon. Woodrow Wilson will be re-elected with hands down. A Democratic paper has a right to believe he will be elected anyhow, figuring in the entire United States and he will.

John Lauer is hauling tile, wire and posts out to the farm this week and expects to make some extensive improvements this season.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bittner and Henry F. Gehant motored to Bradford on last Sunday afternoon in the former's car.

C. B. Propst shipped a car load of hogs to the Chicago market on Tuesday night from West Brooklyn. The hogs were nearly all of his own raising.

Work on the new restaurant building has been delayed for a few days on account of the wet condition of the ground. The tile are carrying away the water at a rapid gait but the water does not cease to ooze from the cellar bottom and side walls so that the balance of the dirt does not dry and cannot be removed.

Albert Barnickel of Compton was in West Brooklyn on business Tuesday evening.

William Auchstetter motored to Dixon on Wednesday to return the ballots from the previous day's election. William made a flying trip, for he was back in West Brooklyn by 9 o'clock a. m.

Frank Chaon and wife were visitors in West Brooklyn Monday.

John R. Oester of Sublette transacted business in West Brooklyn on Monday.

George Zinke of South Brooklyn was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. Louise Wigum of Congress Park visited over Sunday with her mother and other relatives and friends here.

W. U. Biggart was here Monday on business.

Otto J. Oester was in town Sunday visiting with his friends and relatives and incidentally attending the C. O. F. services on Sunday morning. 85 members of the local court were in attendance and made a very good showing. Most of the other 16 members reside away from this vicinity and the distance prevented them from attending.

To our subscribers in Dixon who get the Telegraph by carrier. Price $5.00 a year. Club rates with the Chicago Tribune or Chicago Herald, $8.20, the Chicago paper to be sent by mail.

SOME DIXON PEOPLE HAVE LEARNED That Neglect Is Dangerous

The slightest symptom of kidney trouble is far too serious to be overlooked. It's the small, neglected troubles that so often cause serious kidney ailments. That pain in the "small" of your back, that irregularity; those headaches and dizzy spells; that weak, weary, worn-out feeling, may be nature's warning of kidney weakness. Why risk your life by neglecting these symptoms? Reach the cause of the trouble while there yet is time—begin treating your kidneys at once with a proven kidney remedy. No need to experiment—Doan's Kidney Pills have been successfully used in thousands of cases of kidney trouble for over 50 years. Doan's Kidney Pills are used and recommended throughout the civilized world. Endorsed at home. Read Dixon testimony.

Mrs. W. Hipple, 1121 W. Seventh street, Dixon, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have found them of great help for kidney trouble and backache. One box is all that I need to remove any lameness or soreness in my back."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hipple had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

BRITISH DEFEAT TURKS ON TIGRIS
General Lake Forces Foe Back Three Miles.
SEE RELIEF OF KUT-EL-AMARA

Great Britain's Spirits Revive as News of Latest Success is Received. Turks Now in Position Where Floods Are Aiding the Relief Columns.

London, April 15.—British troops advancing to the relief of the besieged Kut-el-Amara garrison in Mesopotamia have inflicted a severe defeat on the Turks. General Lake reported that the Turks have been driven back on the south bank of the Tigris from one and one-half to three miles.

Revives British Spirits.
The announcement of the British victory came at a time when the public was beginning to fear efforts to relieve the force of General Townshend at Kut-el-Amara were doomed to failure, owing to the check suffered by the relieving army a few days ago, and the difficult conditions brought about by floods.

High Water Helps Relief Troops.
Many military writers in England believed the floods had made the relief of General Townshend almost an impossibility, but the new official report shows that, instead of hindering the British, the high water has helped the forces of Lieutenant General Gorringe in one of the most difficult tasks undertaken by the British army.

Each mile the Turks are forced back makes the British operations easier, for as they approach Kut-el-Amara, the Turks are compelled to defend a wider front.

In view of the latest news, therefore, the prospect of rescuing the army at Kut-el-Amara is regarded as better than it has been for some time.

Turks Put Russ to Flight.
An official statement given out at Constantinople says:
"A force of Persian warriors and Turkish detachments attacked Russian cavalry, some three regiments strong, in the vicinity of Sujkulak, and put it to flight in the direction of Urumiah (Persian Armenia)."

PRO-ALLY SAVANTS STIR ANGRY PROTEST
Michigan Professors Sign Memorial Favoring Entente.

Ann Arbor, April 15.—President Hutchins of the university of Michigan has received from Congressman Crampton a telegram hotly protesting against fourteen members of the faculty signing in their official capacity a memorial declaring sympathy with the entente allies and against Germany.

Congressman Crampton declared it to be a "gross breach of the neutrality proclamation issued by President Wilson" and protests against the men participating "as professors of the university of Michigan."

Those signing the memorial were: Henry M. Bates, professor of law and dean of the law school; Victor C. Vaughn, dean of the medical school; Herbert C. Sadler, professor of naval architecture; C. H. Van Tyne, professor of American history; Jesse F. Reeves, professor of political economy; C. B. De Nancrede, professor of surgery; Francis H. Kelsey, professor of Latin; Albert M. Barrett, professor of nervous diseases and psychiatry; S. Lawrence Bigelow, professor of chemistry; Campbell Bonner, professor of Greek; A. W. Hewlett, professor of internal medicine; Wm. H. Hobbs, professor of geology; Wm. H. Hobbs, hard, professor of physiology; F. G. Novy, professor of bacteriology.

That the signing of the memorial by state professors will be investigated by the board of regents was indicated by Frank B. Leland, member of that board when the matter was called to his attention.
